“ I am grateful to have had Marc as a student during his elementary years at Mingo School. Marc was a talented, self-motivated, hardworking student with a great sense of humor and an even better heart.

Marc was a gifted visual artist. It was apparent even at this young age, should Marc decide to pursue a future in the Arts, the sky was the limit for him. Marc was also a member of the school basketball team. He was a good player, scrappy and fun to watch! No matter the endeavor, Marc always had the support of his loving family.

I feel blessed to have known Marc and will cherish the memories. Praying for Gina and the family that God gives you peace and comfort-always.

Love,
C. Thurman

“ It feels so surreal to be doing this, right now. I find it hard to digest that life has brought us to this moment.

I'm gonna miss the awesome philosophical talks we had. The ridiculous stories I've heard time and time, again. I'm sorry I wasn't around as much as I used to be. I regret that more and more, every minute.

You were such an awesome influence in my life. You taught me that, no matter the task, we would do it right and we would have fun while doing it. You instilled confidence in me that I never knew I had.

While it hurts to think about you now that you're gone, I feel comfort in knowing that's not entirely true. My memories of you and the things you taught me will live forever.

Tell the other side I said hi. I'll see you in due time.

“ My dear precious baby boy - words cannot express how much love you and joy you brought into my life. You were intelligent, very artistic, had a great sense of humor (more sarcastic as you got older), and such a logical thinker at such a young age. You grew into wonderful, loving, caring, hard working man. You always did your best to achieve the high standards of each company you worked for. You could always put a smile on everyone's face. You were so giving of yourself and thought of others first. I will always be so proud of you and your accomplishments. My heart unbelievable hurts so much knowing that I cannot physical see, touch, or speak to you, but memories will suffice till we are together again. I'm comforted in knowing that you are free and healed from all that made you suffer. I love you Weetheart and will miss you so very much. Enjoy your life in the most beautiful and glorious place we call Heaven.
Love, Momma

“ Gina, I am so very sorry for your loss. Losing a child no matter what their age has to be the toughest thing anyone can ever face. You are in my prayers for God's comfort. Your friend, Kay McMillen (McClary when you worked at Owen).

“ Gina you and your family are in my prayers. I heard it was a beautiful service. If you need a shoulder, I still work for TPS and office at Wilson. This is unbelievably tough. Sadly I have several friends who have recently shared your same sorrow. You are an amazing woman, let your loved ones comfort you as best as they can.

“ I had the pleasure of first meeting and working with Marc right after he was promoted to Field Service Manager at Dish. I got to watch him grow and develop in his new role, but more importantly I got to know him as a person and discover what an amazing, intelligent, kind, dedicated, and selfless individual he really was. He had many great aspirations personally and professionally. He dreamed big and lived well, he will be sorely missed. I wanted to share the picture I took of him in the new suit he had recently purchased to interview for his next prospective role with Dish. Prior to this I had never seen him in anything other than his Dish attire, or black outfits. Although he was not overly formal in his day to day appearance, his heart and soul and spirit were as admirable as any person I have known. Thank you Marc for being there for everyone, you touched many lives and will never be forgotten.

“ I rejoice for him that he isn't on this Chaotic planet anymore, living in this society that just seems to be getting crazier... But in my selfishness I'm going to miss him and his sarcastic humor. And truly, my heart is broken for his family, this has got to be a very tough time for them. I will miss him pushing us to become better. I am sharing a favorite photo of his. He would send to tech's, when they needed "The Look Of Disappointment", because they probably knew better, and shouldn't have been asking such a ridiculous question. Im gonna miss him.
