“ I knew Brian literally my entire life! He is my closest in age cousin and I remember fondly playing with him as a child. Hide and seek was a favorite! We spent many hours laughing together. As we grew older every time we saw each other Brian had a funny quip or a profound thought that would take me by surprise at times, but that was Brian quiet, unassuming, kind, and wiser than anyone knew, maybe even himself. He will be missed forever he was taken way too soon. Love you Bri, Bri!

“ Brian was a great kid. we got to know Brian well when our families took many ski trips together in Colorado. Brian didn't always talk a lot but when he did, it was usually profound. One of his favorite sayings was "When your out there, your out there". Brian your out there now. We'll keep praying for you and you put in a good word for us every now and then. We'll miss you.

“ I simply cannot believe that we just saw you, Alan and Loretta and Brian was doing great. He has always held a special place in my heart and I am so sad for your loss. The Carters certainly understand the devastation of the death of a child and will be praying for all of you as you grieve. Mike and Paula “ Brian was such a kind-hearted person. He worried about others way more than he worried about himself. He never wanted to draw attention to himself or cause anyone to worry. Brian was a huge part of Town & Country School, a constant. I've caught myself looking for him, forgetting for a moment that he's no longer with us. Such a distinctive smile and laugh. I'll forever be grateful for knowing him. Brian has left the world much to young. Since we received the information of his passing, people have come up to me and shared stories of relationships we didn't even realize were present. He touched so many lives, in a quiet and steady way. He will truly be missed by all who new him.

I didn't know Brian as an adult but remember his cute smiling face as he entered my three year old classroom. All the other kids and the teachers loved him and his happy enthusiasm. I know he will leave a large hole in his world.
