“ I am saddened to hear of the passing of my long time friend and neighbor, Tommy. I remember the countless days I would spend at his house listening to Cheech and Chong albums, in particular Sister Mary Elephant, and laughing until our stomachs were sore. Or riding his way cool Yamaha dirt bike. I also smile when I think not only of Tommy, but also his sister, Leslie and his Mom and Dad. Those memories take me back to the sweet days of innocence and living each day to it's fullest. I regret that the journey's of adulthood took us in separate directions, but I'm thankful of the times we did have, those wonderful days of childhood. Rest in peace Tommy. I'll never forget you.

Tom was an excellent cook. He made me the best steak when we were still teenagers and we reminisced about that evening recently. He decided to become my personal chef via texts this last year and I have never had so much fun in the kitchen. He was witty, kind and patient, with a dash of perversion to keep me interested. I really can't believe you are gone. Of course I thought we had so much more time together. We ended each conversation the same way, one last joke, let's try something new, next time don't drink all the wine, next time...

I Love you Tom. Good Night
