“ It was with heavy hearts, that I, Kory, and Kristy learned of Francy's passing in the paper. We have many, many fond memories of Francy and Duane and the kids. Teaching with Francy was a delight and the friendship with Duane and Francy even better! We were all so young. I am sure that Francy was greeted by Stormy as she left this life and entered a new one. It has been a long while since I have seen Francy or Duane, but the funny, strong bond that comes with friendship is never extinguished. My family loves your family- then and now. Take heart Duane, Stormy and Francy love you still. Your friends, Linda Greaves, Kory McClintock, and Kristy Hodgson.

“ Francy was a talented artist in her own right. She taught all levels of Art to hundreds of students at Broken Arrow High School for years. She was especially patient with students who were true novices and even surprised to have a counselor-placed Art class in their schedule. She made them feel like artists although they may never have had more art training beyond her class. She had a wry and quick sense of humor and was loved by students and teachers alike.
