“ Greg and I attended First Baptist Church together. I remember early in my junior year, Greg's sophomore year, we were sitting together on a Wednesday evening in church. Although I believed in Jesus and had been baptized when I was nine, I was in no way living the life of a Christ-follower. Greg knew that and he was on a much better path than I was. However, on that Wednesday evening they were having a testimony service and Greg kept prodding me to stand up and testify. He said, "Gary, you're one of the best Christians in high school. You have to say something." I finally stood up and said something but his calling me a good Christian, when I knew I wasn't, really bothered me. It wasn't long after that when I rededicated my life to Christ and was called by God into the ministry. Later that year, our church had a youth Sunday when the young people did everything, including preaching. I was the chosen to preach the Sunday morning message and Greg preached on Sunday evening. I don't remember what he preached but I never forgot the night he said, "You are one of the best Christians in school." Prov. 18:21 says "Life and death are in the power of the tongue." Thanks Greg for speaking life into me. I never forgot your words. Look forward to seeing you again.
