“ I met Jack (and Marilyn) 46 years ago in 1973 when I married Marilyn's brother, David Blythe. Over all those years at holidays and family gatherings, Jack Klahr was the most decent man I have ever met. He was a good husband and a good father to his kids and the best role model anyone could ask for. He was kind and always offered to help. I am sad that he is gone from us, but I know that God had other plans for him and called him home and we will see him again.

“ I am sorry to hear of Jack's passing. I have many fond memories of growing up with Jack and David. Playing baseball in our back yards, learning to ride a bicycle, going to school together at Burbank Elementary, and being Cub Scouts in Den Seven, Pack Seventeen. We had fun and life was care free in the fifties. We drifted apart over the years and went our separate ways but would occasionally cross paths. I always knew Jack was out there somewhere being Jack. He will be missed.

“ David Blythe and I spent many beautiful memories, trying new food to road trips with Jack and Marilyn. He was a wonderful man, a good father, husband and grandfather. Jack is going to be missed dearly.

“ I remember Jack when Marilyn first brought him to meet David and me in Tulsa. He was a very handsome, but unassuming young man with a wry smile and happiness in his eyes. I knew they would marry then. After they married, we were good friends, and the happy times we shared remains a cherished memory. Although David and I divorced, I knew that Jack and Marilyn were my friends forever. I will miss Jack until I see him in the “City Foursquare.”
