“ A smile comes across my face when I hear the names of Troy and Margie Taylor, for they were part of my childhood folklore regarding very nice people. My mother, who passed away in 1990, Maxine Summers Hayes, always held them and their children out as an example as “what could be” for her own children. I am grown now, having had many blessings in my life, and am very thankful for the stories I heard about them as people and as a family as well as the few times I met them in my childhood. It’s comforting that God sent nice examples for us to live by. May God continue to bless her family.
