“ I worked with Ray at KC for a long time on the paper machine. He was an excellent operator with a fierce pride in his ability to do his job and to help others do their job. I learned a lot from your Dad and still carry that same pride in doing the job. Ray was such a funny guy, he could crack me up with the most simple thing. Sometimes working shift work wasn't the easiest thing but with a guy like Ray on your team it made things seem okay. Your Dad could be a bright spot on a long day. I hadn't seen him since his days here at KC but when we spoke of the "old timers" that started up the paper machine he was always at the top of the list. I'm very sorry for your loss but know that Ray will be remembered for being a funny, hard working, and inspiring guy. God Bless.

“ I'm so sorry to hear of Rays passing and send my sincerest condolences to his children, grand children and family. Ray was an amazing man that loved and supported his children fiercely. He was always there to be a landing place and provide support to his kids and even their friends. I recall him enjoying Wild Turkey and would get mad but not too mad if we would sneak some. Lol . When my son was just starting school he spent every before and after school day at his house. He treated Isaiah as if he was one of his grand children. Isaiah said he even called him Papa as a kid. Ray was the definition of a Man, he took care of his children as a single dad through thick and thin. Always putting them first. He will be missed immensely but I have full confidence we will see him again in heaven. Rest in Peace Ray 🙏.

“ Ray had such a gift for communicating with children. He understood them, listened to them, made them laugh, played and did all kinds of recreational activities with them, comforted, encouraged, taught, supported, and protected them. He had a calm and laid-back personality and dry sense of humor that drew adults and children to him alike and made them feel at ease with him. I am so proud of Ray’s devotion to his children and grandchildren. He was the glue that held the family together and made them all so happy. Molly says she fondly remembers her Uncle Ray’s “handlebar mustache and cowboy hat”.

I may not have seen Ray often enough as an adult, but I will miss the essence of him and the family times we were able to spend together. I will feel the loss of his physical presence in this world, but my memories of him and his spirit will stay with me.

I express my deepest sympathy to Sarah, Matt, and Kris and their families, all my other siblings, and to Mom, who is feeling the loss of her son, with all her being.

I pray for rest and peace for you, my dear brother.

With All My Love,

Chris

“Daddy, you are home, you are whole and you are free of pain.

I love you fiercely and still can not believe this is reality, but it is.

You have taken care of me, literally from day ONE! You have always been "My Guy". You called me Sarah Roo Roo until the day you passed. Dad, I remember asking you why you called me that and you said "Well, you just have so much energy, like Roo from Winnie-the-Pooh" and well, you're right, I do! Lol.

When I came into this world you were young and in college. You made the unselfish choice to quit and take care of me/mom. You let her finish school, which always made me look for a man like you, that would let me have my dreams, no matter what they were.

You worked so hard for us, worked your ass off!! We lived together for 17yrs as adults. You saw me have 4 children, get married. You saw my highest highs and lowest lows and loved me the same during it all.

My favorite memory honestly, is when I became pregnant at 17, you took it with sadness and grace. It made me feel so safe and supported! You made me cold cherry jello, just so when morning sickness hit, I would throw up cold cherry liquid, which oddly made it a little better and we did that for the next 3 pregnancies! Along with this memory, is how, even after working 16hrs, you would make me homemade tuna sandwiches with all the fixin's and "surprise" me once a week.

I love you Daddy. I love your hands, because no matter how hard you worked (AND YOU DID) they were always soft and gentle.

I love you Daddy. You are home, you are free and you are free from pain.

Love your, Sarah Roo Roo

“ Greatest Grandparent, Parent, Friend anyone could have, always willing to help even when He didn't have much. He got me into alot of things I enjoy today.

My memories are scattered so it's hard to remember specific ones, Listening to Him talk about our Family history, or just history in general, He was very knowledged. He got me into tech cause I helped him with building/fixing computers, He got me into gaming around 5 or so when he'd let me play a pinball game on his computer. He got me into a lot of old music and movies, kept me calm during Heavy Storms, watching him get the water right in our pools we had. He will forever be my greatest idol. I love you Papa.

“Ray and I were at the Stillwater hospital waiting for the twins to be born. They took Lindsay back and Kris's followed and the double doors closed . Ray and I peered into the windows on the double doors off and on while we were waiting just to see if we could see or hear anything, It was one of these times that Ray noticed a white coat on a hook by these doors . He looked at me , then the coat and back at me. I remember the twinkle in Ray's eyes and laughter - thinking about putting that coat on , going through those doors! 😂

“ I love you so much, Dad. I miss you very much.

My favorite memory of my father is really just a lot of clusters of little events, he was always there when life threw what it had at me.

I remember him being so strong and tough, he was truly my hero. I remember when a guy at school was picking on me and my dad asked me if I wanted him to call their parents to set up a boxing match at a gym. It never came down to it, but that's what my dad was like. He would give you all the tools necessary to succeed on your own regardless of what it took from him and he had faith in you to succeed and be better.

I will never forget my father's face, voice, smile, the wrinkles in the outside corner of his eyes when he smiled and squinted. His strength and determination. His compassion. The best parts of me I got from him and I will be sure to pass what he taught me along to my children.

I love you, Dad.
