“ Daddio, you were so extra... you never did anything mediocre. You told the best stories and used so many different accents; you were a natural entertainer! A bighearted, silly and playful child at heart... that’s what you were. You we’re so generous, and always made sure that no one left your house hungry. I know that you’re just laughing at us while we sift through your things.. asking ourselves why the heck did dad need THIS MANY FLASHLIGHTS?! 🗑️😂

I love you so much. I can’t wait to see you again.

“ You are home...safe and in our Savior's arms. Scott... you had such a tender heart and completely adored your children and that was clear to all who knew you. I will always remember you eating a fat guys hamburger and laughing with your kids! I pray that God will comfort your children, your family and grant them peace and comfort in knowing that they will see you again.
